A criminal offence includes all convictions, cautions, reprimands and warnings.

Disclosure of a criminal offence does not necessarily mean that you will not be appointed; a person's suitability will be looked at in the light of all the information available. One of the main considerations will be whether the offence is one which would make the person unsuitable to work in a capacity which provides the opportunity for access to young people or vulnerable adults. To help with this you may be asked questions if shortlisted for interview.

Any information you provide will be treated as strictly confidential and be considered only in relation to the specific role you have applied for.
